

New Project Ideas

- Create infographics, posters, or record a PSA on washing hands or social distancing
- Check in with your peers who need special support and helping them succeed
- Create educational videos (have your content verified by your supervisor) for 6th & 7th grades at LXM or elementaries
- Organize study groups with your peers, keeping track of it, and producing a report at the end of the experience
- Organize online workouts together with peers to stay active and healthy
- Organize a list of virtual field trips and experiences for students in other grades
- Record readings to help your peers and all kinds of learners
- Record or stream a concert or a sing along for younger children
- Serve as online reading buddies for elementary students
- Serve as online tutors in different subject areas (more effective if you identify concrete skills you will be practicing and what you will strengthen through engagement)

Special thanks to J. Rafael Angel for some of the ideas and inspiration

Ummm... There's this thing called the Coronavirus... What Should I Do Now With My Project?

Have I completed the "Taking Action" Phase?

Awesome! Move into phase 4, Reflecting

I have a project investigated and planned, but haven't done the Action yet

I can still do it without changes or I can do with some small changes

Great! Go ahead with your project as normal. If you have questions, check in with your supervisor and BE SAFE!

Options

I have a plan, but it won't work now.

Seriously though, do I still need to do a project?

We love that our Lynx are CARING and PRINCIPLED. We really hope you are able to demonstrate those traits through a community project, no matter how small it may seem.

You could always try one of these

You may completely change your project if you like. Check out the list of ways you can make a positive impact on your community from home!

Try and modify your project so you no longer need to go out. KEEP SAFE!

Move to phase four, reflection, and write or create a presentation discussing how the investigating and planning went and how you think the taking action might have gone. If you choose this option, it will not hurt your score. We understand.

What if I haven't started anything yet...
